Hempsey Hinton was killed though not in battle as was sometimes thought, but by one Charles Anderson, in 1779 (as shown by Court Records in Wilkes County)

(Hempsey Hinton had a brother, Le Ray Hinton who was slain in battle at Kettle Creek in Wilkes County during the Revolution.

Fort record, old Malloryville in Wilkes, records birth of one James Hinton, son of Hempsey Hinton, in the fort. His father was in active service during the Revolution.

Hintons, originally from England, settled first in Va. then our branch of the family in N.C.; later in Wilkes County, Ga.
